

Old Navy

AMERICAN EARTHLINGS TAKE GREAT PRIDE IN THEIR MILITARY. THEY EXHIBIT THIS PRIDE IN THE FORM OF SOMETHING CALLED "MODERATELY-PRICED CASUAL CLOTHING".

The grid below is the ocean for a game of word-based Battleship. As in the original game, there are five ships hidden in the water, but in this case they are words, reading up, down, left, or right (never diagonally). They are a 5-letter Carrier, a 4-letter Battleship, a 3-letter Destroyer (always positioned horizontally), a 3-letter Submarine (always positioned vertically), and a 2-letter Patrol Boat.

	K	L	M	N	O	P	Q	R	S	T
A	K	C	A	L	S	O	I	L	A	D
B	N	O	W	O	T	S	R	I	F	E
C	E	L	A	P	O	K	E	D	E	R
D	E	O	R	F	R	I	M	E	L	A
E	D	R	E	A	M	N	A	N	I	D
F	U	S	I	D	E	D	A	O	R	S
G	H	A	L	O	N	L	N	D	E	C
H	S	P	E	N	R	E	G	A	L	A
I	I	R	U	B	Y	G	A	J	O	T
J	F	A	S	T	U	R	B	A	N	S

Your goal is to locate all five ships by firing torpedoes into the grid. Identify the words represented by the pictures, and write them in the correspondingly-numbered spaces. Each word represents a shot fired at the intersection determined by that word's first and last letters. If the word begins with the Row letter (A-J) and ends with the Column letter (K-T) then the shot is a hit; otherwise, it's a miss. For instance, the word AARDVARK would indicate a hit in the upper-left cell, while KOALA would be a miss.

When you've found all five ships, the circled letters in the clued words will tell you how to find your location.
